Quad Alliance Reaffirms Unity for the Indo-Pacific Region's Future Needs

- The Quad alliance consists of India, Australia, Japan, and the United States. It was initially formed in response to the 2004 tsunami and earthquake in the Indian Ocean region.
- During that disaster, the four nations came together to assist affected populations, initiating relief efforts that involved over 40,000 emergency responders.
- In 2024, the Quad alliance continued its collaborative efforts in disaster preparedness and humanitarian relief in the Indo-Pacific region.
- The alliance aims to ensure peace, stability, and free navigation in the Indo-Pacific region and supports the unity of the ASEAN nations.
- The Quad affirmed its commitment to work collectively for the region's future requirements.
